Appearance of professional equipment does not inspire awe. Perreux SXH2 Chrome - a gray box with a silver bezel.

Appearance of professional equipment does not inspire awe. Perreux SXH2 Chrome - a gray box with a silver bezel. No displays or lights is not here: only one input, output and volume control. Say, boring? We think so too, when connecting the amplifier to a PC sound card. The first included the ears of some wild cacophony of sounds - a nice-sounding headphones before this crash and burst into unintelligible noise. Music is was not. Scratching his head, we become like a real audiophiles: First get rid of the Creative X-Fi, Move to Trash collection MP3 and shook off the dust from the CD. The source used a USB-card based on an audiophile DAC Burr-Brown PCM2702, issuing a stunning purity of sound. Plus, the shielded cables hooked up to 1000 rubles per square meter. And here, everything changed.

Sound is crystal frequency is literally imprinted in a chair and causes some kind of a silly smile on his face. There is a desire to quit work, lock themselves in a room and pereslushat entire audio collection from scratch. Can hear the tiniest nuances of the record: if the songs are painfully familiar to suspect that somewhere there's another guitar in the background, then with the Perreux SXH2 Chrome it is really heard. Every note and piece of music is highlighted and emphasized. It is true that electronic records on such things look interesting - but in the live music for yourself, you can open a lot.
